Appomattox Middle School Due For Renovation

Appomattox County School Superintendent Lloyd Walton reported at the regular meeting of the Appomattox County School Board on Friday afternoon that a $50,500 contract has been awarded to the firm of Coleman Adams Construction Company of Lynchburg, for the remodeling of Appomattox Middle School. The renovation will include lowering of ceilings and replacing lights throughout the school.

Supt. Walton also called the board's attention to the need for improvement in four restrooms in elementary school and both Pamplin and Appomattox Schools needed new tile in the cafeteria. A quarry type tile is what is needed as required by a change in state health regulations. There was considerable discussion as to whether an architect was needed for the restroom renovation. The board gave Supt. Walton the authority to go ahead with plans without the services of an architect.

Mrs. Jean Hesson brought a report of the textbook committees, stating that these committees had very thoroughly gone over the textbooks before making recommendations. The school board approved new books for math, health and science.

Ronald Smathers, a member of the Appomattox County High School Band Boosters Club asked the board to consider the fact that band uniforms and additional instruments were badly needed for the coming year.

At the request of the Appomattox Volunteer Fire Department, council voted to replace two inch hose needed for one of the fire trucks. The Department also requested two Air-Packs for use by the firemen, however, no action was taken at this time regarding the matter.

Council members granted a request from Shearer Robertson for a loading zone in front of his business on South Church Street with a limit of 30 minutes for loading.
